

“I was delighted to have Anastasia working with me on my edited volume, because she has expertise in helping colleagues for whom English is a second language. My project involved chapters from colleagues from around the world, and I would have been "in water over my head" without Anastasia. While she was helping to bring the language and structure of each chapter up to very high standards, I was able to focus on the substance and content of each chapter. Together, I am confident we were able to produce an edited volume that represents the best that scientists from around the world have to offer about the topic of positive mental health.”

- Corey L. M. Keyes, Associate Professor of Sociology – Emory University